United States Department of Agriculture,

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY—Circular No. 65.

C. HART MERRIAM, Chief of Bureau.

DIRECTORY OF OFFICIALS AND ORGANIZATIONS CONCERNED WITH THE PROTECTION OF BIRDS AND GAME, 1908.

The following directory of officials and organizations concerned with the protection of birds and game in the United States and Canada has been arranged on the same plan as the directories issued each year since 1900, and has been revised to July 15, 1908. The addresses are grouped under four headings—State Officials, National Organizations, State Organizations, and Audubon Societies. Organizations which have not been heard from during 1908 are marked with an asterisk (*).

The object of this directory is to present, in convenient form, the names of persons to whom application may be made for information respecting game laws. It also shows the date of establishment of each State commission or wardenship, the changes which occur in such offices, and the publications issued by game officials. As most of the present fish and game commissions originated as fish commissions, the year when each was established and that in which it assumed jurisdiction of game are given. If the warden work has been separated from fish culture, or game protection made independent of fish and forest protection, merely the date of establishment of the present office is given.

In 40 States the enforcement of game laws is intrusted to game commissioners, wardens, or other State officers; in 6 others—Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nevada, and South Dakota—to county wardens; in Virginia to city and magisterial district wardens; in Arkansas to sheriffs and similar local officers; and in the District of Columbia to the Metropolitan Police. The first State officials charged with preservation of game were apparently the moose wardens appointed in Maine in 1852 and the ducking police of Maryland appointed in 1872. Several national organizations are interested in the protection of birds and game, of which two are really international. In addition, State associations and many local organizations cooperate in the work of protecting game in 28 States. One of these associations was organized in 1844, another in 1865, and 5 others were established more than twenty-five years ago. Similar organizations have been formed in 8 provinces of Canada, of which one in Nova Scotia was established in 1853 and one in Quebec in 1859. Finally, 38 States have Audubon Societies, organized especially for the study and protection of nongame birds.

Persons interested in game protection are requested to notify the Biological Survey of any errors or changes in addresses in order that necessary corrections may be made in future editions of the directory.

T. S. PALMER,

Assistant in Charge of Game Preservation.
